

MASTER OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION (MBA)

FOCUS ON RENEWABLE ENERGY AND ENVIRONMENTAL MANAGEMENT

STUDY PROGRAMME

The world is faced with an ever growing population with an increasing demand for energy. Challenges of today's society such as the increasing energy demand of a growing world population, climate change and environmental pollution require managers to have a global perspective and to make sustainable decisions. Executives in today's globalised society with knowledge and skills in both renewable energy and environmental management who know how to manage these challenging tasks are in high demand.

This MBA programme includes different perspectives on leadership, management and business administration. Students gain expertise in environmental management and acquire profound knowledge of the latest renewable energy technologies.

The curriculum is structured into interdisciplinary modules with a focus on leadership skills, subject expertise and methodical knowledge and is designed for professionals from all sectors of the energy and environmental industry who want to improve their management skills in order to qualify for leadership positions. In addition to management skills, soft skills are incorporated into the programme and students get the chance to expand their professional network and exchange ideas with executives, lecturers and guest speakers from around the globe. In three semesters, our MBA students get to know the relevant methods and trends in environmental management and the renewable energy sector. They become experts in their field and get the opportunity to advance their management careers.
